

For brokers and real estate salespeople: Our booth was one of the busiest at a major real estate board trade show recently. Why? Because we made a statement that "you could have a $30,000 web site and it would not be as powerful as the one supplied by ICIWorld.

The reason? Because we provide, for your web site, thousands of residential and commercial ads, all of which have been agreed to by other sales people. This means when anyone visits your web site and sees any of these listings, they must call YOU for more information. This makes you money! You can do referrals or you can make an appointment and show property on the enquiries. You can add these links to your other web sites. It is absolutely inevitable that everyone do business. I should know. I also have been a broker for over 37 years but now specialize in helping real estate brokers and salespeople benefit from the Internet.
